

ABSTRACT

A container for containing articles is disclosed. The container comprises a first section and a second section. The first section is capable of engaging the second section to form a hermetic seal. The first section has a first cavity that is surrounded by a first peripheral wall and a peripheral edge. 5 The first peripheral wall has a first surface that is angled toward the peripheral edge. The second section has a second peripheral wall that is capable of sliding between the first peripheral wall and the edge to form a hermetic seal.